

KILLENORTY, or KILLENOUGH:

A parish, in the barony of Pubblebrien, 2 1/2 miles (S.W.) from St. Patrick's Well, on the road from Croom to Limerick; containing 390 inhabitants. The land is generally good, and is based on limestone. It is a rectory, in the diocese of Limerick, forming part of the bishop's mensal. In the R.C. divisions it is part of the union or district of Loughmore.