

GLENBROHANE:

A village, in the parish of Ballingarry, barony of Costlea, 3 miles (E.) from Kilfinane, on the road to Galbally; containing 44 houses and 233 inhabitants. Here is the R.C. chapel for the district, which was built in 1819, at an expense of £600; also a constabulary police station.